HOW SUPPLIERS SUBMIT PRODUCTS

FishChoice.com lists fishers, aquaculture operators, primary processors, importers, and Marine Stewardship Council chain of custody certified distributors. Products are submitted to FishChoice either online, via email, or phone:

- FishChoice.com "Submit Seafood" link
- Email: info@fishchoice.com
- Toll Free: 877 642-0008

Products that meet the standards or certifications by our partner organizations are quickly added for free to FishChoice.com.

HOW BUYERS FIND PRODUCTS

Buyers register for free at FishChoice.com to gain immediate access to our list of sustainable seafood products. Buyers can browse products by category or region, and sort results according to sustainability ratings, supplier name, and more.

If you don't see the fish you need, fill out the "Product Search Request" form. We will identify sustainable or certified options and notify you with detailed supplier info.

HOW BUYERS & SUPPLIERS CONNECT

When buyers find products they can:

- Contact suppliers through FishChoice.com's easy online form
- Forward product information to their distributor or procurement team via the online form
- Use the information from FishChoice.com to contact suppliers directly

VALUE FOR SUPPLIERS

An increasing number of commercial seafood buyers need a simple way to find sustainable seafood products that meet their specifications.

FishChoice.com gives seafood buyers instant access to the information they need to procure sustainable seafood.

FishChoice.com is used by large and small buyers including distributors, retailers, restaurants, working chefs, and others looking to find sustainable seafood. As FishChoice.com grows, product choices will grow, attracting more buyers and rewarding sustainable producers with a steady stream of customers.

“We have seen an increase in inquiries from non-traditional markets and the exposure that we have received from FishChoice has had something to do with that.”

– Patrick Riley,
Western Seafood
